This year we broke new ground. The library project embarked the college on its voyage to the future. We had a groundbreaking introduction to life in China 2000-which encouraged us to explore beyond our national boundaries. But there was more to this year than the library and China. We broke new ground in our lives. We gained knowledge and achieved new goals. As we watched the library prepare for the new century, we realized that it symbolized our move as well. The shell of the library took on a new shape-as did we. We changed from high school grads to career minded men and women ready to take on anything that the future has to offer. There we problems-the library construction crew shattered Garber Science Center's window. But each of us had at least one broken window to repair as well-whether academically, spiritually, or physically. That's life. But there is a rainbow after every storm and after a few small repairs, we find ourselves better and stronger than before-ready to face what lies ahead.

The members of the freshman class are supporting each other, literally. This trust and support activity was one of the many silly things they had to do during Playfair.

Freshmen Orientation

New surroundings, new faces, new experiences. A freshman arriving at Lebanon Valley on August 27, 1994 easily could have been overwhelmed by it all without the Freshman Orientation program. Resident students were assigned rooms within freshman communities located on almost every floor of each dorm. This provided new students with the opportunity to live with their fellow classmates. Each freshman community had the benefit of having both a peer advisor and an orientation leader living on its floor.

During the Freshman Orientation, the members of the Class of 1998 participated in activities such as Playfair. The activities organized by the Student Activities Office are designed to be icebreakers, allowing the students to get to know one another in an informal setting.

Jennifer Evans, director of Student Activities, felt the entire orientation weekend was a great success. "I thought everything went really well. Playfair was a success, as usual," Jen said.

Homecoming

The 1994 Homecoming festivities began Thursday, October 20, with the second annual powder puff game. The Smashing Pumpkins, composed of freshmen and juniors beat the Unknowns made up of sophomores and seniors 34-14.

The celebration continued Friday evening with a school-spirit-boosting bonfire. The bonfire introduced all the Fall Sports teams' captains, as well as the traditional burning of an effigy of the rival team in the bonfire. Friday evening featured Wig & Buckle's opening performance of Scapino and the comedy of Johnny Hardwick in the Underground.

At halftime of Saturday's game, the Homecoming Queen, Tara Bennecoff, was named. Alissa Mowrer was the runner-up. A pig roast in the social quad, an Authors and Artist presentation, and the "Harvest Ball" topped off Saturday's festivities. The crowning of the King, Andy Sensenig, took place at 11:30 p.m.

The 1994 Haunted Homecoming was successful due to the help of many people. At the top of the list is Laura Tolbert, Homecoming Committee chairperson. Jen Evans, Director of Student Activities, commented, "I was very excited about Homecoming this year. Laura Tolbert did a great job."

War on Financial Aid

Battle lines were drawn at Lebanon Valley this spring when the threat of student financial aid cuts became personal. The Financial Aid office led the charge against Congressional proposed cuts by sponsoring a letter writing campaign to Senators and Representatives in Washington. This campaign received a lot of attention on campus and local news coverage.

Contrary to the belief that college students are apathetic, LVC students do not fit that mold. With 85% of students at LVC receiving some form of financial aid, students were more than willing to let their voices be heard on Capitol Hill.

Unfortunately, the campaign was not met with complete support from the campus community. Dissent from some administrators resulted in verbal warfare and soapbox theatrics.

Spring Arts Festival

Mike Peachey and Bill Saltzer, co-coordinators of the 25th Annual Spring Arts Festival, wished for two things at the opening of the weekend: that everyone enjoy their time at the festival and "that the sun shine brightly all weekend." Well, judging from the reactions of the crowds of people that filled the Social Quad both Friday and Saturday night, the weekend was a success. As for the weather...that was a different story.

Despite the fact that Sunday's rain chased away a lot of people, it did not stop others from having fun. PHILO proceeded to make steak sandwiches in the rain during the early afternoon and loyal audiences watched as the LVC College, Concert, and Chamber Choirs and the LVC Symphonic Band performed in Lutz Hall.

Leedy Theater celebrated the arts this weekend with the dance routine of Cricket Dance and the entertaining production of Samuel Beckett's Waiting For Godot.

Despite the early ending of the 25th Annual Spring Arts Festival, the weekend was a great success. Though disappointed about the weather, Peachey stated that "we had a great day on Saturday." All he could say about Sunday was "we really got wet."

S tudent Life

Lebanon Valley College students participated in the Haunted House sponsored by North College Hall and were involved in the Christmas at the Valley program. Theater productions throughout the year provided entertainment for the entire campus community.

Several LVC students seized the opportunity to study abroad. There were also exchange students from other countries such as England and Sweden studying at Lebanon Valley.

Student Council brought a big name group, Toad the Wet Sprocket, to campus on April 6. Perhaps the greatest ground breaking event, literally, was the beginning of construction on the new library. Students had to adapt to the changes forced upon them by the temporary library housed in the West Dining Hall.

With Vickroy Hall all decked out for Halloween, Michelle Schmalzer and Dennie Speicher chat after the Homecoming football game. LVC students got in the decorating mood during the holiday seasons throughout the year.

Decorating for the Holidays

Maybe it is just an excuse to put off studying, but decorating for the holidays seems to be a popular activity on campus. Halloween this year was especially decorative because the holiday coincided with the Homecoming weekend. Organizers of the weekend chose a Haunted Homecoming theme. Black and orange decorations covered the campus.

During the Christmas holiday season, many students pulled out all the stops as they decorated dorm rooms and hallways. The strings of lights hanging in the halls lit up the dorms even on the gloomiest of winter days.

Getting a Facelift

Construction Abounds at the Valley

Perhaps the most noticeable change on the Lebanon Valley campus was the construction of the new library. After moving all of the contents of the Gossard Memorial Library to temporary sites in the West Dining Hall, Faust Lounge and one of the lounges in Vickroy Hall, the construction was underway.

The temporary library caused minor problems. Books were not always immediately accessible making it difficult to finish research at the last minute. There was also a decrease in space for studying.

The minor inconveniences of the past will be forgotten when LVC students have their new state-of-the-art library at their disposal.

A Stage for All Occasions

The newly renovated Leedy Theater serves many purposes at LVC. Students, faculty, and the community are entertained by the shows produced by the Wig and Buckle Society such as Scapino and the musical, Carnival. However, someone venturing into the Leedy Theater might also find anything from a lecture to a psychic.

Open house sessions for prospective students are sometimes held in the theater. The facility is also useful for Student Activities Office events. The stage was also used a few times for the Authors and Artists series during the year. Leedy Theater is the perfect setting for cultural events or other entertainment.

Wellness Week

More than Sneakers and Sweats

What do massages, sex, stress, and aerobics all have in common? According to Pam Lambert, they are the ingredients for Wellness Week, February 6-10. Across the campus a wide array of activities were planned that encompassed, as Lambert pointed out, "physical as well as mental" wellness.

Some of these events included massage therapy, self-esteem workshops hosted by Millersville University students, question and answer sessions with a state trooper about alcohol awareness, and a forum about sex and violence and dating.

Jen Evans, the coordinator of the event, said that Wellness Week is an annual event geared toward "helping you feel well." It achieves this, said Evans, "through different programs on how to relax" and how to provide the best care for your body. "Of course," she said, "those who need the program most will probably be too busy to come."

Wellness Week concluded on a more entertaining note featuring Friday's Late Night At Arnold Sports Center. "It's a week of fun," Evans said, "that hopefully has underlying educational themes."

Lebanon Valley athletic teams are supported by students, faculty, the surrounding communities, and parents.

LVC is a Division III college in the NCAA. The Men's Basketball team came into the season as the 1993-1994 National Champions. Although the team lost in the first round of the tournament this year, the season was still a success.

The Field Hockey and Volleyball teams also faired well against their competition. Each LVC team represented the school with class and sportsmanship.

Lebanon Valley College's women's sports have long produced many fine athletes. One of the top women's teams for the 1994-1995 season was the field hockey team. Several players were named All-American and All-MAC team players.

The 1993-94 Division III NCAA basketball champions again advanced to National competition for the 1994-95 season under the leadership of new coach, Brad McAlester.

Football

The 1994 Flying Dutchmen finished a frustrating season with a record of three wins and six losses. The lone out-of-conference game, against Johns Hopkins University, resulted in a win with a final score of 10-0. This first game gave the team hope of a successful season. Unfortunately, this win was followed by four consecutive losses.

An especially disappointing loss came on October 22, when the Dutchmen were defeated by Lycoming College, 14-12, in the Homecoming game. In attendance that day were 3,500 fans including many students and alumni.

Attendance throughout the season was good. Home game attendance totaled 13,500, with a home average of 2,700. Support of the team was obvious even during rough times.

Guided by head coach, Jim Monos, the Dutchmen were led by several players. Offensively, senior Andy Sensenig led the team with a net gain of 471 rushing yards, attained in his nine starts. Senior Jason Lutz, with 391 yards had the longest run of the season for LVC. His 29 yard run was against Delaware Valley College.

Starting quarterback, senior Mark Lapole, had a total of 1,237 passing yards and 111 net rushing yards. Ed Donley, also a senior, led the team with 44 receptions and an average of 51.4 yards per game.

Defensively, junior Ed Boyer stood out with five interceptions during the season. Following closely behind were juniors Mike Susi and Cory Mattern, both with four interceptions.

Cheerleading

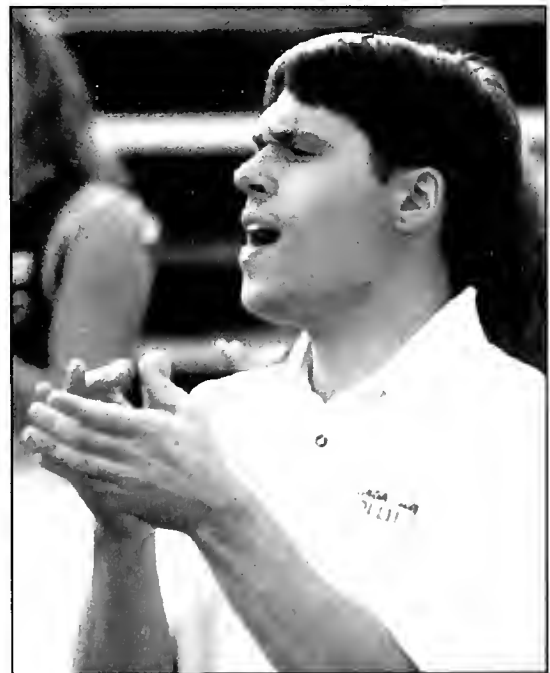

The Cheerleading squads at Lebanon Valley play important roles during football and basketball games. In formation on the track, in front of the LVC bleachers, the football cheerleaders provide inspirational chants and cheers. Although the crowd does not always respond when called on to do so, the cheerleaders root on the team strong and loud.

During the basketball season, the basketball cheerleaders are present at all the games. The cheers and dances performed add spirit and enthusiasm to the game.

Throughout the fall and winter, the cheerleaders practice their routines and cheers. With the help of their adviser, Jennifer Evans, the cheerleaders are able to perform at almost every game.

Field Hockey

The Lebanon Valley Field Hockey team returned to the MAC playoffs this year, but suffered a first-round loss against Wilkes. It was the first time in three years that the Lady Dutchmen did not make the NCAA playoffs.

LVC finished the season 11-8 overall and 6-1 in the Mid-Atlantic Conference Commonwealth League.

Senior Alissa Mowrer led the team with 21 goals. She also had eight assists. senior Becky Wiest was the Dutchmen's assist leader with nine.

LVC's first victory of the season was in the home opener against Wilkes. Junior goalie Angie Harnish made five saves in the 2-0 win.

When the Lady Dutchmen competed in the William Smith Invitational in Geneva, New York the weekend of September 17, they were defeated by William Smith, the 1992 Division III champion. Freshman goalie, Joanna Bates, playing in her first game as a Dutchman, made six saves.

Later in the season, LVC defeated Albright at home on October 4. They outshot the Lions 69-2 in the 6-0 win.

LVC secured their spot in the MAC playoffs by defeating Elizabethtown 3-0 at home on October 13. The Dutchmen won their last game of the regular season on October 22, during Homecoming weekend, against Widener.

Soccer

A struggling Men's Soccer team, with head coach Mark Pulisic, ended the season with three wins and seventeen losses. Seven games were played against Middle Atlantic Conference Commonwealth League teams. The remainder of the opponents were non-league teams.

Freshman Robb Ford had 163 saves in the goal. Keith Stryker had 109 saves. Leading the offensive attack was Rongrig Sangpo with six goals. Rostislav Kopylkov and Greg Glembocki were not far behind with five and four goals, respectively. Chris Hartman and Chris Kirchner each had two goals during the season. Glembocki led the team in assists with a total of six.

The Dutchmen Soccer team is in the building process. With the exception of three juniors and a senior, the team is composed entirely of freshmen and sophomores. With experience playing together, the Dutchmen have potential to be contenders in the future.

Cross Country

Lebanon Valley's men's and women's cross country squads did not have a great deal of team success during the season. There were, however, several strong individual performances. In the first meet of the season, the Millersville Marauder Invitational, held on Saturday, September 3, the men's team had a fourth place finish. Senior Jeff Koegel led the Dutchmen runners by finishing first. Ed Brignole finished fifth.

On September 10, Lebanon Valley hosted its own invitational at Indiantown Gap. The LVC men finished ninth, while the women's team was sixteenth. Lisa Frey, the standout of the women's team, had a seventeenth place finish. She was number one in the Baptist Bible College Invitational.

In the October 1 meet against Allentown, Muhlenberg, and Swarthmore, Koegel and Brignole finished first and second, respectively. Frey was the first-place finisher in her race.

The Middle Atlantic Conference cross country championship was held October 29 at Susquehanna. Koegel won his sixth race of the season there. Brignole tied for eighth in the men's race and Frey placed fifth in the women's.

The highlight of the season for Koegel came on November 19 when he placed 36th in the NCAA Division III Cross Country championship held at Lehigh University. Koegel was competing against 184 other finishers in the race and improved from his 118th-place finish in 1992. This time in the 1994 championship was just four and a half seconds from earning him a NCAA all-American selection.

Volleyball

The Dutchmen Volleyball team finished the season with an impressive 22-8 overall record. They were 4-3 in the Mid-Atlantic Conference Commonwealth League.

LVC opened the season with a non-league win over Cabrini. The Lady Dutchmen played in the Scranton Tournament and won five matches and lost only one. The loss was against Goucher College.

The LVC Tournament was also a good show by the Dutchmen. They won four of five matches, losing their second match-up against the University of Pittsburgh-Johnstown.

In the Goucher Tournament, LVC split the matches, winning two and losing two.

The Dutchmen profited from a good season from senior Angie Shuler. She had 698 assists during the season. Sophomore Natalie Baruka led the team with 319 kills, 58 solo blocks and 28 assisted blocks.

Becky Slagle also boosted the team with her 41 service aces and 138 digs.

The Dutchmen lost the first round game to UAF. But LVC defeated Hawaii-Pacific in overtime in the consolation game and became the first Division III team to win a game in the tournament.

Closer to home, the Dutchmen had a successful season and won the MAC title, with a 3-0 record in the playoffs. Unfortunately, the team suffered a loss to Goucher College in the first round of the NCAA Division III tournament.

During the season, the Dutchmen were defeated by non-league rival Franklin and Marshall in an away game played before 2500 fans.

Before the loss to Goucher, LVC had won 9 consecutive games.

The team finished the season with a 22-6 overall record and a 12-2 record in the MAC in Head Coach Brad McAlester's first year with LVC. Senior Mike Rhoades was named a National Association of Basketball Coaches-Sears Division III First Team All-American.

The Lady Dutchmen Basketball team concluded their 24 game season with an overall record of 11 wins and 13 losses. The team was 5-9 in the Middle Atlantic Conference Commonwealth League.

The season began with two away losses to non-league teams.

The team won their home opener against Marywood.

A disappointing loss came in the thirteenth game of the season against host MAC opponent Widener. The Lady Dutchmen lost 58-61 in overtime.

Unfortunately, the team suffered three losses to finish their season.

Sophomore Missy Bleyzgis was the only Dutchman to start all 24 games. She averaged 10.1 points per game.

Susan DuBosq, also a sophomore, led the team with an average of 10.7 points per game. The 5'10" forward also led with 120 defensive rebounds and seven offensive rebounds.

Freshman Tricia Rudis pulled down 111 defensive rebounds during the season.

Men's Swimming

The 1994-1995 LVC Men's Swimming Team finished the season with a 3-8 record. The wins came against the College of Misericordia, Juniata and King's.

Eight LVC men qualified for the Middle Atlantic Conference Championship. Senior Howie Spangler placed first in the 100-yard and 200-yard freestyle events and the 100-yard backstroke. Spangler and two other MAC swimmers won the David B. Eavenson Award for the Outstanding Swimmer.

Junior Bob Twining placed second in the 100-yard and 200-yard breaststroke. Twining also finished sixth in the 200-yard individual medley. John Schmidt, a freshman, finished sixth in the 200-yard butterfly and tenth in the 100-yard butterfly. He also finished ninth in the 400-yard individual medley.

Senior Scott Mongo finished seventh in both the 100-yard and 200-yard breaststroke. Sophomore Jason Kopp was seventh in the 100-yard backstroke and ninth in the 200-yard backstroke.

Allen Keeney, a sophomore, was 12th in the 100-yard back and 19th in the 100-yard fly. Jason Tesche, also a sophomore, placed 14th in the 50-yard freestyle.

The LVC men's 200-yard medley relay team of Kopp, Twining, Schmidt, and Spangler finished fifth as did the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Kopp, Tesche, Twining, and Spangler. The 800-yard freestyle relay team of Kopp, Keeney, Tesche, and Spangler was seventh and the 200-yard freestyle relay team of Spangler, Kopp, Twining and Tesche was eighth.

Senior Scott Mongo competed in the breaststroke in the MAC championship.

Women's Swimming

The LVC Women's Swimming team's season came to an end with a 0-11 record. Although the regular season was a bit disappointing, seven LVC women were qualifiers for the Middle Atlantic conference Commonwealth League Championship.

Junior Gina Fontana, who qualified for seven events, finished fourth in both the 200-yard and the 400-yard individual medley events. Fontana also placed fifth in the 200-yard breaststroke. Nancy Seidel, a sophomore, was 15th in both the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard backstroke. Junior Sandy Bambrick finished 17th in the 50-yard freestyle and 19th in the 100-yard butterfly.

Freshman Wendy Warner was 18th in the 200-yard freestyle and 25th in the 100-yard backstroke.

Wendy Zimmerman, a sophomore, had qualified for six events. She was part of the 800-yard freestyle relay team but later dislocated her shoulder during her first individual event and missed the rest of the meet.

Fontana, Seidel, Bambrick and Warner made up LVC's 200-yard and 400-yard freestyle relay teams and the 400-yard medley relay team.

WRESTLING

The 1994-1995 Lebanon Valley College Wrestling team was comprised of eleven men. Head coach Larry Larthey was assisted by alumnus Chris Lloyd and student Chad Miller. Although the team finished the season with a 1-10 record, there was reason for individual team members to celebrate.

Four members of the LVC wrestling team competed in the NCAA East Regional tournament at Ursinus College. Freshman Bob Heim lost two matches at 142 in the tournament. He finished the season with a 13-12 record. Highlights of his season include placing fourth at the 13th Annual Mount Union College Purple Raider Invitational on January 6 and 7, and placing seventh in Lebanon Valley's 25th Annual Gerald J.

Petrofes Invitational held on December 2 and 3. Sophomore Brian Kampf lost two matches in the NCAA tournament at Heavyweight. He finished the season with a 2-11 record.

Sophomore Joe Howe placed an impressive second at the NCAA Regionals at 190 with four wins and one loss. He concluded the season with an overall 27-8 record, finishing third in both the King's College Monarch Invitational on November 12 and the Petrofes Invitational. He placed fourth in the Mount Union Invitational. Howe finished second in the Middle Atlantic Conference Championships held at King's College on February 4.

Senior Chad Lutz also competed in the NCAA East Regional tournament. He placed fifth at 167 pounds with four wins and two losses. He was third in the King's College Invitational and fifth in the Petrofes Invitational. Lutz placed third at the MAC Championships and finished the season with a respectable 27-8 record.

Track & Field

In the Middle Atlantic Conference 1995 Indoor Track and Field Championships, the LVC Men's team finished 95 points that earned them third place. The LVC Women's team accumulated 54 points and finished in fourth place.

Lebanon Valley teams may not have finished in first place; however, sophomore runner Nate Hillegas took fourth place in the 55 meter hurdles and first place in the 400 meter race and the 200 meter race. Jen Nauss, also a sophomore, placed first in the Women's Long Jump, the 55 Meter Dash, and the Women's 200 Meter. Hillegas and Nauss were named MVPs of the championship meet.

The Middle Atlantic Conference Championships for Outdoor Track were held on May 5 and 6. The LVC men placed third out of nine teams with 128 points.

Senior Jeff Koegel placed first in the 5,000 Meter Run and the 10,000 Meter Run. Hillegas was first in the 400 Meter Dash and in the 400 Meter Hurdles. LVC senior Ross DeNisco was named the outstanding male athlete of the meet. He placed first in the Discus and first in the Shot Put. DeNisco was the 1994 champion of these two events.

The LVC women placed fourth out of nine teams with 104 points. Nauss placed first in the 100 Meter and 200 Meter Dashes and second in the Long Jump. Thea Roomet was second in the High Jump. Bryn Metcalf took second in the 100 Meter Hurdles and Cori Nolen was second in the 400 Meter Hurdles.

Golf

LVC's 1995 Golf team was coached by Lou Sorrentino. The team had an overall regular season record of 11-5-1.

Junior Craig Sharnetzka played in 8 matches. His low round was 75 and he average 82.1 strokes on the season.

Jim Zerbe played in 12 matches. He averaged 81.5 strokes and had a low round of 76. Scott Maier's low round was also 76.

Five members of the team played in the MAC Golf championships April 29 and 30 at Mountain Laurel Resourt. LVC finished fourth out of 13 teams in 3 round. Jim Zerbe had the lowest score for the LVC team with a total of 243 strokes.

The 1995 Dutchmen Baseball team, with Head Coach John Gergle, concluded the season with an 8-21 record overall and a 4-10 record in the Middle Atlantic Conference Commonwealth League.

During Spring Break, the team traveled to Florida where they won two games and lost five. After their return from the warm Florida sun, the Dutchmen won at Swarthmore on March 15.

A March 18 doubleheader at Juniata was swept by the Dutchmen and improved their record to .500.

The Dutchmen split an April 1 doubleheader against Albright, a MAC league opponent.

LVC defeated the College of Misericordia, a non-league team, at home on April 11.

LVC senior shortstop, Mark Lapole, was named a first-team MAC all-star. He finished his senior season with 40 hits in 104 at bats for a .385 batting average. His slugging percentage was an impressive .730 with six doubles, three triples, and eight home runs. Lapole also had 28 runs batted in this season and a fielding average of .866.

MAC ALL- STARS

Three members of the Lebanon Valley College softball team were named Middle Atlantic Conference Commonwealth League all-stars.

Named to the first team was junior second baseman Sharon Murray. Named to the second team were senior shortstop Joda Glossner and junior designated hitter/third baseman Tonya Showers.

Murray finished the 1995 season with 43 hits in 114 at bats for a .377 batting average. With seven doubles and two home runs, she had a slugging percentage of .491. She also had 18 runs batted in, 14 stolen bases, and a fielding average of .928.

Glossner ended her senior season with 28 hits in 111 at bats for a batting average of .252. She had three doubles and a triple for a .297 slugging percentage. She also had 14 RBI, 16 stolen bases, and a .894 fielding average.

Showers began the 1995 season at third base, but was moved to the designated hitter position due to an injury. She had 32 hits in 82 at bats for a .390 average. With six doubles and three triples, her slugging percentage was .537. She had 21 RBI, four stolen bases, and, while playing third base, a fielding average of .842.

Softball

The Lebanon Valley College lady sluggers finished their 1995 season 8-28 overall and 4-10 in the Middle Atlantic Conference Commonwealth League. The first win of the season was a 3-2 nonleague victory at King's College in the first game of a doubleheader on March 23.

In the first game of a doubleheader against Juniata College on March 25, the Lady Dutchmen won their first MAC game of the season. The April 1 doubleheader against Pace University, a Division II school, was split. LVC won the first game but lost the second in five innings.

A highlight of the season was the sweep of a MAC League doubleheader at Albright College on Saturday, April 8.

April 13 brought the split of a non-league doubleheader against Franklin and Marshall. Again the Dutchmen won the first game, but lost the second.

On April 19, the team split a MAC doubleheader at Susquehanna. They were defeated in the first game, but came back to win the second game.

The final games of the season were played on April 29. The doubleheader was split with Centennial Conference champion, Western Maryland College. LVC won the first game, but lost the second.

MIKE RHOADES

Lebanon Valley College's Mike Rhoades, a senior guard from Mahanoy City, Pa., was named a National Association of Basketball Coaches-Sears Division III First Team All-American.

Rhoades was a NABC All-America for the second straight year. He was the first NABC First-Team All-America at Lebanon Valley since Don Johnson in 1972-73.

Rhoades averaged 21.3 points per game and 6.8 assists per game this season. The Flying Dutchmen finished 22-6, winning their second straight Middle Atlantic Conference title and making their third consecutive appearance in the NCAA Division III Tournament.

JEFF KOEGL

LVC senior Jeff Koegel of Wood-Ridge, NJ, finished 36th in the NCAA Division III cross country championship, held at Lehigh University, Saturday, November 19.

Koegel, competing against 184 other finishers in the men's race, ran a time of 25:51.9 to improve from his 118th-place finish in 1992. Koegel's time was just four and a half seconds from earning him a NCAA All-American selection.

Koegel qualified for the national race by placing fourth at the NCAA Mideast Regional Championship.

LVC FEATURE ATHLETES

JODA GLOSSNER

Joda Glossner, a letter winner in three sports at Lebanon Valley, finished a successful collegiate athletic career.

Glossner, from Duncannon, Pa., was named a First-Team MAC All-Conference player. She was also named to the Academic Honor Roll for the MAC Conference. In addition to these honors, Glossner was recognized as a South Atlantic Regional All-American and a Second Team College Field Hockey Coaches Association All-American.

During the basketball season, Glossner started 15 games. She averaged 7.3 points per game.

Glossner finished her senior season in softball with a .252 average. She had three doubles and a triple for a .297 slugging percentage.

For her efforts, Glossner was awarded a post-graduate NCAA scholarship.

Lebanon Valley College students are involved in a variety of organizations on campus. Clubs range from academic organizations such as the Math Club and Chemistry Club to the cultural organizations such as the Black Culture Club and the International Student Organization.

New to the LVC campus this year was the Gay/Bi/Lesbian support group. Another organization new to campus was the religious dance group, Praise Him with Dance, otherwise known as P.H.D.

LVC is also home to various service and social fraternities and sororities.

Music fraternity Sinfonia sells hamburgers during the annual Spring Arts Festival which is organized by the LVC Spring Arts committee, a very hard working organization on campus. The Spring Arts committee members work all year to plan for the three day festival.

LVC's Marching Band performs at every home football game. Participation in the organization increases each year.

Toad Plays in Annville

On April 6, the music of the popular group, Toad the Wet Sprocket, filled Lynch Gymnasium. The opening band for the evening was the Figs. Student Council sponsored the concert which was attended by LVC students and the surrounding community.

Despite a smaller turnout than expected, members of Student Council and their advisor, Jennifer Evans, were glad to see that those who attended had a good time.

The students that volunteered their time selling tickets, setting up, and acting as security helped to make the event possible.

A New Beginning

The Quittie's Consulting Advisor, Kim Taylor, reads her poetry in Zimmerman Recital Hall.

A few years ago, the Quittie, LVC's yearbook, was in danger of becoming defunct. A lack of student involvement was jeopardizing the future of the Quittie. However, a small group of students managed to keep the publication alive, although the effort was not always easy.

Support from the administration and Jane Paluda, the advisor, helped to continue the organization's existence. The college hired Kim Taylor, a residential director in Silver Hall, to be a consulting advisor for the year. She was the editor of her college yearbook and offered advice and her knowledge of yearbook journalism to the Quittie staff.

The yearbook is a group effort and requires involvement from all students on campus. Co-editor Melissa Howard works on the Quittie in the yearbook office. Leslie Gardiner, a staff member, does some work on the book in her dorm room.

As a fund-raiser for World Vision, members of Project spent the night in the social quad. Experiencing conditions that homeless people live in was an eye opening experience for the students that participated in the event.

Project members passed the time singing songs and playing games. The night of the hunger fast in the quad turned out to be one of the coldest of the winter.

In 1992, Alpha Sigma Tau became the first and only national social sorority to receive recognition on the campus of LVC. The sisters of the Gamma Tau chapter are a group of fun loving girls dedicated to encouraging social life on campus, sponsoring activities open to everyone in addition to the sisters. Events such as bowling, parties, and ice skating allow students to have fun off campus as well.

The sisters have held car washes for two years in a row in order to raise money, but most of all just to get the chance to splash each other. Throughout the year, AΣT also participates in social service projects to help out in the surrounding community, like remaining on call for Operation Snow and handing out Valentine's Day cards in the local nursing home. In short, AΣT sisters are always working towards creating a happier place to live.

The Biology, Chemistry, Math, and Psychology Clubs extend membership to all interested students. Accounting Club, affiliated with the National Association of Accountants, provides field trips and guest speakers. According to Kathy Ryan and Karen Paul, officers of the campus Biology Club, "Membership has expanded this year and we're always looking for new students who want to join and get involved!" Some of the activities that the club has planned and carried out this year are pizza parties and dinners at area restaurants. The officers greatly encourage more students to become involved in not only the Biology Club, but also any or all of the academic clubs on campus.

Above all, the main goal of each academic club on campus is to increase and to maintain student interest in the disciplinary areas.

Diversity is Welcome Here

Black Culture Club

The purpose of the Black Culture Club is to heighten awareness of the Black culture and to promote diversity among students as well as the entire campus community. The club also tries to increase the feeling of fellowship and community among its members. B.C.C. sponsors many activities on campus including the annual Talent Show, which occurs in the fall. One of the activities held this year was Kwanza, a celebration of African-American heritage.

Also, during Black History Month, the club showed movies, such as "The Color Purple" and "Glory," featuring some prominent Black actors in today's society. As well as providing activities for students on campus to participate in, the club also plans and completes community service projects. This year a Saturday morning Bingo game was played at the Lebanon Valley Home of the United Church of Christ.

In addition to these activities, a year-end picnic was held at Kreiderheim for members, faculty, and friends of the club. The Black Culture Club strives to promote unity and friendship on campus, and welcomes any and all interested LVC students faculty, and staff genuinely interested in the purpose of the club.

The Class of 1995 is made up of a diverse group of students. They are from different parts of the country and the world, have different majors, and have different interests. One thing they all have in common is graduating from Lebanon Valley College.

Each member of the Class of 1995 will pursue their own goals and careers. As they grow older, they can remember the times spent at LVC. Entering as sheltered freshmen or slightly more experienced transfers, the LVC senior emerges more mature and ready to face the world that confronts them.

2. You remember Michael Jackson with an Afro.
3. You join clubs so that you can have something to put on your resume.
4. You start thinking that laugh lines are not a laughing matter.
5. You wonder what is wrong with kids today.
6. You finish your professors sentences for them during lectures.
7. You remember life before MTV and CD's.
8. You start believing the old adage, "Early to bed, early to rise..."
9. You begin identifying with your parents.
10. Two beers put you to sleep.
11. You think that the college freshmen look like high school freshmen.
12. You start creating a professional wardrobe.
13. You glue your mouth shut from licking all those resume-filled envelopes.
14. You begin regarding the people that you date as "possible spouse material".

Stephanie Hanke is happy the commencement exercises are over.

G raduation

On a beautiful Saturday morning, May 13, 1995, LVC seniors crossed the stage in the 126th Baccalaureate and Commencement Exercises.

Excitement, sadness, and trepidation filled the air. The Class of 1995 was faced with leaving behind their secure and comfortable lives at LVC and entering the "real" world.

It was a time of emotional goodbyes as friends and roommates wished each other luck and success.

George Hollich, a stand out in many areas at LVC, especially drama, music and psychology, was awarded the Howard Anthony Neidig Award.

Graduates, family and friends gather in the social quad for refreshments. It gave the newest members of LVC Alumni a chance to say goodbye.

After the commencement ceremony, Mike Peachey looks around at what he's leaving behind.

As president of the Class of 1995, Howie Spangler reads the psalm during the Baccalaureate Service.

Chaplain Darrell Woomey gives the Invocation before the Commencement Service begins.

A group of friends gather on the chapel steps after the ceremony.

During the Commencement ceremony, President Synodinos confers the degrees. Here he presents Lloyd Balman with his diploma.

Claudia Wehbe always had a way with words.

Karen Best goes over the order of activities with senior Tara Koslosky.

Members of the faculty and administration and honored guests join in the singing of the Alma Mater.

Mike Eshleman stops to think about leaving LVC while he waits for the processional to begin.

Graduates and their families meet on the chapel steps after the Baccalaureate Service.

George Hollich was the recipient of the Howard Anthony Neidig Award which was presented during the Commencement.

Brad Dukehart, a new LVC alumnus, is happy to see his family.

Roni Russell, class treasurer, makes the presentation of the Senior Class Gift. The Class of '95 raised over $20,000 during the gift drive.

Residential Life

Residential life on the Lebanon Valley College campus has been through several changes over the last several years. The newest additions to the campus are Derickson A and Derickson B. Mary Green Hall, a co-ed dorm, had two floors of females and one floor of males this year. Keister Hall, also a co-ed dorm, increased its female population. This year the first and third floors were females and the second was males.

Although not a part of the residential life, the commuting LVC students add a great deal to the campus. Participating in activities and organizations helps to make the commuters part of the LVC community.

First floor Mary Green residents Angie Coval, Jen Negley, Danielle Boilleau, and Arianne Zeck enjoy a beautiful spring day.

*T*hroughout the year, the library was transformed from a hollow shell into an impressive structure. Although there was still work to be done when the spring semester ended, the progress on the building was apparent.

Everyday there are changes in our lives. We may consider most of these changes to be minor and insignificant; however, every event, action, and accomplishment has an effect on our lives. We learn from our mistakes, improve on our shortcomings, and savor our victories.

Every LVC student is somehow shaped by their college experience. We're always looking forward to our bright futures as we are BREAKING NEW GROUND.

AΣT sisters, Dennie Speicher, Ann Gram, Karen Paul, and Jen Yofin sit in the social quad to talk after lunch.

Editor's Notes

A very special thank you goes to Kim Taylor, our consulting advisor for the 94-95 year. We could not have done this without you. Thank you Jane Paluda, our advisor. Also, thank you Lisa Hollowbush, my co-editor for the past three years.

To President Synodinos, Deans Yufas and Stanson and the rest of the administration: Your support is deeply appreciated. Thank you for your concern.

To Jen Evans, Ben Ruby and Student Council: Thank you for giving the yearbook another chance.

A big thank you to the 94-95 Quittie staff: Davada Yarfett, Leslie Gardiner, Carrie Stull, Cornell Wilson, Kim Kettering.

Thank you to Kelly Fisher and the LaVie staff, especially Jasmine Ammons, Natalie McDonald, Jason Macoviak, and Mike Huang, for the use of copy and pictures.

Many thanks to Ann Schottman & John Deamer, LVC Sports Information. Thank you also to Jim Monos.

A huge thank you to Ed Patrick, Jr., our Taylor representative. Without Ed, Melody Lundquist and the Taylor support staff, we would not have a book.

A thank you goes to Mark Huff and Davor photography.

To the LVC student body: Your cooperation is appreciated. It takes everyone's effort to produce a yearbook. Thank you.

To Thee, dear Alma Mater
This ringing song we raise;
A song that's fraught with gladness,
A song that's filled with praise.
We cannot help but love Thee,
Our hearts are full and free;
Full well we know the debt we owe,
To dear old LVC.
We come from old New Hampshire,
Where winter breezes blow,
And from the sunny Southland,
Where sweet magnolias grow.
We've sung "Star Spangled Banner,"
To "Dixie" giv'n a cheer;
And now we raise this song of praise,
To Alma Mater dear.
Ye sons of Lebanon Valley,
Put forth your strongest might,
And let our Alma Mater
Win each and every fight.
Lift high its royal banner,
And keep its honor clear,
And let our song with voices strong
Ring down thro' many a year.
